

Annual monitoring report – 2007 to 2008

Non-technical summary

By law, every year we must write a monitoring report on the local development framework. We are still preparing the local development framework, which will become the plan for how we use land and space in the borough.

We need to collect this evidence to prove that we have achieved our planning targets. This can help us to make sure there is a better quality of life for everyone in Barking and Dagenham, now and in the future.

Our yearly monitoring reports must also cover our progress in preparing the local development framework. Overall, we have made good progress in preparing the local development framework.

Our yearly monitoring report collects evidence on how we used land and space in the borough from April 2007 to March 2008 and the wider effects of this. Our main findings were as follows.

- There are now 815 more homes in Barking and Dagenham, compared to the previous year. This is below the target in the London plan.
- In the past year, we gave planning permission for 11,569 extra homes to be built. Most of this comes from Barking Riverside, where we granted an application for over 10,800 homes.
- 24% of all the extra homes we built in the last year were built for people who earn less than the average wage. We have recently committed to providing even more affordable homes.

- Most of the new homes are one- or two-bedroom flats. But outside Barking town centre, we have built many family homes.
- Over the next 15 years, we predict that more than 20,000 extra homes will be built in the borough.

The local development framework contains policies which, if carried out correctly, will improve performance in these areas. It aims to provide more affordable homes and more family homes, to make sure that enough schools, doctors' surgeries and other community facilities are built and that public transport is improved so people can reach places of work, shops and other places without using their cars. It aims to make sure that:

- we recycle more waste;
- more energy is provided from renewable sources; and
- we protect open spaces and allotments.

If we find, based on the evidence that we have collected, that the local development framework is not performing very well, we can make recommendations in the monitoring report, for how we can change it in the future. This way we can make sure that the local development framework is helping us to create a better quality of life for everyone in Barking and Dagenham now and in the future.

- Some land is reserved for business purposes and on that land we have given permission for a number of industrial and also storage and distribution developments.
- Although people in Barking and Dagenham produced more household waste during the year, we recycled a higher percentage of it.
- The total amount of waste we dealt with has also increased over the last year. This includes waste not only from local businesses and homes but waste from outside the borough.

- Developers have installed solar panels on new buildings, but we need to ask them to do more to reduce the carbon emissions of new homes to meet the target.
- A number of allotments were bought and used for building in the borough.
